Fifth Sunday of Easter

A Sabbath Thought

Those who live in the gospel spirit must expect trials. As we await the full realization of God's reign and of the life to come, we receive a command to love others with the selfless love with which Jesus loved us.

About Today's Bible Readings

ACTS 14:21-27

The work of Paul and Barnabas is marked by instruction, prayer, fasting and the designation of local leaders for the growing number of churches. They encourage all to persevere in faith and to expect trials as they strive to enter into God's reign.

Responsorial Psalm:

145:8-9, 10-11, 12-13

R. I will praise your name for ever, my king and my God.

REVELATION 21:1-5

John's vision presents a new Jerusalem, a city radiant with God's glory. Those who live there enjoy a life free of pain and suffering. A new age will have begun.

JOHN 13:31-33a, 34-35

² These words of Jesus to his disciples at the Last Supper are set in the context of both betrayal and love. Having given himself in life to the service of others, Jesus is now given over to death. In this he is glorified. He gives his disciples a parting commandment - love as he has loved them, in life and in death, in persecution and in peace.

ENTRANCE RITE (John 13:34-35)

V. I give you a new commandment: love one another. As I have loved you, so you also should love one another. Alleluia.

R. This is how all will know that you are My disciples, if you have love for one another. Alleluia.

V. Glory be to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Spirit,

R. As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be, world without end. Amen.

THE GOSPEL JOHN (13:31-33a, 34-35)

When Judas had left them, Jesus said, "Now is the Son of Man glorified, and God is glorified in him. If God is glorified in him, God will also glorify him in himself, and God will glorify him at once. My children, I will be with you only a little while longer. I give you a new commandment: love one another. As I have loved you, so you also should love one another. This is how all will know that you are my disciples, if you have love for one another."

This is the Gospel of the Lord!

Worship Services
